THE FORESTRY SOCIETIES.

THE ROYAL FORESTRY SOCIETY OF ENGLAND AND WALES.

President: The LORD MERTHYR. Secretary: R. C. B. GARDNER. Asst. Secretary: MRS. J. M. GENESE, 49 Russell Square, W.C.1.

This Society was formed for the advancement of forestry and arboriculture and has, for 60 years, urged the importance of woodlands as a national asset, and has endeavoured to improve and extend forestry operations, and to arouse, stimulate and guide practical interest on the part of the State as well as the private owner.

The Society has given consideration to the rating and taxation of woodlands, death duties on timber, railway rates, marketing of home-grown timber, Census of Woodlands and import duties on timber; it publishes a Quarterly Journal of Forestry which is sent free to members; it has instituted examinations for woodmen and foresters; it has conducted investigations into such subjects as the larch disease, the effect of drought and frost on tree growth; it arranges visits to woodland areas at home and abroad, where different methods of management can be studied.

The R.F.S. of England and Wales.

Woodman's Certificate.

1.—Candidates will be expected to prove their ability to perform the following operations:—Planting, Nursery Work, Felling, Pruning, Fencing, Hedging, Measuring Timber, and Keeping Tools. Tools will be provided, but a candidate may use his own if he so desires. Candidates may also be asked to identify the more important trees, bushes and shrubs, and to indicate their requirements as regards light, soil, and exposure. They will also be expected to name home-grown timbers and to recognize the commoner diseases and injurious insects, and to suggest methods of treatment.

2.—Third-class railway or bus fares will be refunded to successful candidates.

Forester's Diploma.

1.—Candidates must be holders of the Woodman's Certificate.

2.—Entries must be sent in on a special form, to be obtained from the Secretary, and the examination will consist of three papers, two written and one oral.

3.—Questions may be set on subjects including the following:—Soils. Plant structure and food. Forest pests and fungi. Structure identification and uses of common timbers. Simple surveying. Practical forestry work including creosoting. Valuation and prices of timber. Costs of various operations.

Entrance fee, Woodman's and Forester's Certificate Examinations: Members of the Society, 10s. 6d. each examination; non-members, 21s. each examination.

Regulations and further information can be obtained from the Assistant Secretary for either of the two examinations.
