Dixfield Boy Tells Of Life In Lumber Unit

American Lumber Unit No 2, Bonarbridge, Sutherlandshire, Scotland, September 4, 1917.

Editor Rumford Falls Times:

As I am about five thousand miles away from home, and thinking of home I have been asked to write a letter to our home paper.

As I sit in our camp, I can think of many thousands of things I would like to say. Most people know we have ten lumber units in this country and the unit that left Rumford and vicinity is unit No 2. We left Rumford on the morning of the 12th of June and arrived in Boston on that date. We took in all there was to see in that city and on Friday, June 15, we signed a contract to do lumber work for the British Government. On Saturday, June 16, we found ourselves on board one of the finest transport vessels afloat the water today. It certainly was a fine ship. We left New York bound for Halifax, N S, and remained there four days, making the trip in forty two hours. After four days' wait in that city we left one day about 5 o'clock P M, bound for Liverpool, Eng. It was an adventure no one can imagine as it was all new to most of us. We saw a few large fish on the way over. The sea was very calm and sailing was excellent.

On the morning of July 4th every one thought of home as it is one of our best holidays and now we were in Liverpool, England. After about 5000 soldiers left us, we paraded out onto the floating dock and went aboard a special train of our own, bound for Northland, Scotland. We rode all night and at eleven o'clock the next day we arrived at Bonarbridge, Sutherlandshire, Scotland. The people cheered us all along the way. American flags were waving from most every car window in the train and every one was cheering when they saw the Stars and Stripes.

After about two months sleeping in tents we moved into our nice new camps. We have one large cook and eating camp, one large stable, our mill, four lodging camps, one recreation camp, and Richard Melcher Jr.'s office. Our camps are of board construction and covered with good paper roofing. Our mill is a new one and cuts very fine lumber. All of our timber is what we call Norway pine, no white pine here.

Although Unit 2 came from Oxford County, State of Maine, it is considered by the officials of this concern as the finest, healthiest and best skilled unit-men of the 10 units. Our cook is from Andover, Maine, and he certainly is the best cook in the ten units as the officials greatly enjoy arriving at Unit 2, about meal time, and all visitors are of course recommended to Unit 2 and so they come. Our cook is from Andover also and he is "right there with the goods." The fine choppers of Unit 2 are right on the job in helping the mill running, also the second choppers are not far behind. Our sawyer and millwright cannot be beat as they are experienced in this line and certainly do know their business. Our swamper are "Johnnies on the spot" and they certainly can swamp. Our engineer and fireman are men who can do their "bit" and don't have to inquire from any one. Our blacksmith is very popular in Rumford and he certainly can make wagons and put shoes to the horses. The mill men show they have "been there before," and the lumbar just "walks" right through the mill without a falter. We have a nice bunch of horses and the teamsters couldn't be beat in Oxford county and they certainly do know how to handle the "ribbons." Our clerk is from out of the State of Maine but he can't be beat in mathematics, he is "all there" and a mighty jolly good fellow. Next and last comes our foreman, Mr. Richard Melcher Jr., of Rumford. "Nuff said." We are all contented here and as comfortable as can be. We get three square meals a day and good ones, too. We cut from 14 to 16 thousand a day. Our lumber goes to France where it is used by the railroads and many other purposes for the Allies, and it is used by the Allies only. We have the finest mill that ever was built in this country and it is recommended very highly by the people here. We would be very glad to hear from any friends who care to write, and will gladly receive word from our acquaintances who will take time and trouble to write us as we are a long way from home and such things greatly please us. Trusting this letter reaches our Editor and pleases the many readers we are yours very respectfully, members of the American Lumber Unit No 2, by

Lacy W. Jenkins,
Scaler.

LEFT TO ACCUSED MEN'S CONSCIENCE Demand to Oust Members Ignored by Senate

Washington, Oct. 3.—While letters, telegrams and petitions demanding expulsion of Senator La Follette and other opponents of measures poured into the Capitol, senate privileges and election committee prepared to table all petitions.

"We will do absolutely nothing toward investigating these petitions," said one member of the committee. "We will leave the petition and the matters they cover with the consciences of the men they name."

At the same time, La Follette and other senators were being deluged with messages, some of them threatening. La Follette has been getting scores of letters demanding resignation and a few threatening to renounce him by violence. He also has received a large number encouraging him to oppose war legislation.

DORNOCH—WRESTLING MATCH.—On Saturday last a most interesting boxing and wrestling match took place in the Drill Hall, Dornoch, the various items being contested by members of the American Lumbermen stationed at Bonar Bridge and the Canadian Forestry Unit at Dornoch. Mr Herbert Moore, of Unit 9, Ardgay, acted as referee, and his decisions gave entire satisfaction. Mr Charles Bray, Unit 10, Ardgay, and Corpl. Innis, Dornoch, acted as seconds. Capt. M'Dougall, of the Canadians, was timekeeper. The Drill Hall was crowded with spectators—this being the first time that such an event took place in the town.

CEMENTING THE AMERICAN ALLIANCE.—A very pretty wedding was solemnised on the evening of Friday, November 2nd, the contracting parties being Miss Ina Ross, grand-daughter of Mr and Mrs Alex. Ross, Oldtown, and Mr Randall Floyd-Sessions, of the American Lumber Contingent. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. K. Macleod, U.F. Church, and the bride was given away by her grandfather. Among the many presents received by the young couple was a very handsome silver tea service with silver-mounted oak tray and silver-mounted biscuit-barrel, presented by the men of Unit 2, in which the bridegroom worked. After the ceremony, a very pleasant evening was spent, and the friends who were present from across the herring pond will go back with pleasant memories of their first Highland wedding.
